

TAKE ONE ACTION!

film festivals presents

Supported by

PICTURED: MR TREE

电影院

China on the move

marking Chinese New Year on film

FILMHOUSE

Edinburgh, 25 - 29 January 2012

In partnership with

Think you know China? Look again. To mark Chinese New Year, four award-winning films offer different perspectives on the complex transformations taking place in modern Chinese cinema, society and industry, and how they relate to the wider world.

ALL SCREENINGS AT THE FILMHOUSE CINEMA
88 LOTHIAN ROAD, EDINBURGH
BOX OFFICE 0131 228 2688

BOOK TICKETS ONLINE, VIEW
TRAILERS AND FIND SPEAKER INFO
AT WWW.TAKEONEACTION.ORG.UK

All films will be followed by discussion between audiences and expert speakers.

MR TREE WED 25 JAN, 8.15pm (ages 15+)

This double prize winner at Shanghai Film Festival charts a year in the life of Mr Shu (aka Tree), a Chinese man with learning difficulties whose life allegorically mirrors the social and economic development of his home-town.

"A satire that bridges the personal and political with fantasy and black humour." The Hollywood Reporter

LAST TRAIN HOME THUR 26 JAN, 8.15pm (ages 15+)

Winner of Best Film at the world's leading documentary festival, Last Train Home draws us into the fractured lives of a single family caught up in the extraordinary annual migration home at Chinese new year. Intimate and candid, the film paints a human portrait of the dramatic changes sweeping China.

"An exceptional documentary, stunningly photographed." IndieWire

APART TOGETHER SAT 28 JAN, 6pm (ages 12+)

Signalling a new frontier in representations of China's history and its relationships with the outside world. The opening film and winner of Best Screenplay at Berlin Film Festival is a tale of bittersweet late life romance, as former lovers separated by China's civil war are reunited fifty years later.

"A highly engaging autumnal romance." The Times

MANUFACTURED LANDSCAPES SUN 29 JAN, 6pm (12+)

In this series of extraordinary visual portraits, acclaimed artist Edward Burtynsky travels through China photographing some of the most surreal landscapes of the twenty-first century: the evidence and effects of China's massive industrial revolution and its implicit but hotly debated impact on the environment.

"Powerful! Engrossing! Unsettlingly beautiful!" LA Times

PRESENT THIS FLYER AT THE FILMHOUSE BOX OFFICE OR
QUOTE "CHINA ON THE MOVE"
OVER THE PHONE TO GET:

£1 off each ticket

Standard ticket prices
£7.50 (£5.50 concessions)

See any 3 films for a further 15% off